

Preparing for changes to employment law following the general election

5 July 2024

As Britain's trusted workplace experts, Acas is here to provide impartial employment relations and HR advice to employees, workers, people managers and business owners.

This includes advice relating to changes to employment law.

It is too early to know timescales of proposed legislative change at this point. But we would encourage you to visit our site frequently for updates.

If you're an employer or manager, you can sign up for the Acas e-newsletter to:

- stay up to date with our latest advice
- receive information about related training, conferences or events
